

Conservation in the South West

Continuing conservation work in the south west includes:

Farm visits - Visits to landowners of all kinds (including farmers, smallholders, forestry, councils, conservation organisations, golf courses, etc) to advise on habitat creation and improvement, nesting boxes, conservation grants and predation issues.

Nest site visits - To collect nest site data and place BTO rings on owlets for distribution and longevity studies.

School visits - Visits to schools and children's organisations
